

CONTENTS

Preface 9

A Note on the Seasons 33

1 The Attention-grabbing Opener – late winter: January 36
the hungry gap – spinach and chard – springsumautwin – kohlrabi

2 Living in Eggstasy – early spring: February 61
hens – beetroot – learning new skills

3 Spring Forward – mid-spring: March 93
sowing seeds – seasonality – potatoes – daylight saving

4 Let Them Eat Cake – late spring: April 123 loving spring – the pork crisis – keeping pigs – traditional breeds – broad beans – pigs' arrival

5 The Lusty Month of May – early summer: May 160
crop rotation – pure-breed hens – piggy feelings – peas – lamb

6 The Guy with the Chickens – mid-summer: June 191
salad leaves – cucumber – pigs again – our first ducks – home farm courses – home farm routine

7 Salad Days – late summer: July 225

tomatoes – conserving water – buying organic chickens – rearing chickens

8 Eats Shoots, and Leaves – early autumn: August 256

slugs – other scavengers – slaughtering the pigs – the department inspector – elderflower and elderberry – peppers and chilli-peppers

9 Part of Something – mid-autumn: September 283

GIY groups – harvest – wing clipping – squashes, courgettes, pumpkins

10 Every Such Thing as a Free Lunch – late autumn: October 306

rabbits – foraging – growing herbs – raised beds – slow food – onions

11 Eat the View – early winter: November 335

carrots – urban farmers – winter approaches – the manure pile

12 Happy Saturnalia – mid-winter: December 363

the december garden – garlic – working horses – meitheals – the final pitch!

Vegetable Grower's Guide 392