

ART, YOU'RE MAGIC

by Sam McBratney, illustrated by Tony Blundell

ISBN: 0-86278-374-7 • €4.44 pb • 64 pages

When Mervyn Magee came to school sporting a new blue tie, Art knew he wanted one just like it, and when Mum bought him a butterfly tie he was sure people would like him better. He wasn't expecting the jeering and teasing which followed as his classmates accused him of being a copycat. In trouble for responding to Henrietta's taunts, he felt disappointed and ashamed. But when Ernie got chickenpox and failed to turn up for the school play, Art saved the day with a magical performance and the butterfly tie was forgotten in the clapping and cheers that followed.

LANGUAGE – ENGLISH

- ◆ Descriptive language: 'Scruffy beast'; 'tatty old straggly whiskers'; 'splendid dash of butterfly-shaped colour'; 'his eyes were fierce blue'.
- ◆ Language of abuse/jeering: 'You are a copycat'; 'You shut up'; 'Big Nose'.
- ◆ Discussion: 'Dogs don't have birthdays. One dog's day is like any other ...' (p.39).
- ◆ Poetry: Compile and collect poems which refer to tails, children might examine Rumble in the Jungle for some examples.
- ◆ Creative: Children suggest what Peanuts was saying when he began to bark in Katy's garden (p.33), other children might respond as Art did, write conversation in cartoon bubbles.

SESE – GEOGRAPHY

- ◆ Living in the local community: Exploring Art's role and that of others in the family and school community, how did Art/the teacher/Katy/Art's mum contribute to the success of the school play? People and places in other areas: Needs of all people for food, shelter and clothes. Art's dad spoke about those 'who couldn't afford to buy food never mind new ties ...' (p.40). Children discuss wealth/poverty of people in the wider community.
