

Finn worked for a week.
He built a bridge of stones
all the way to Scotland.
Then he walked
all the way
back to Ireland
across his bridge.

When he got home,
Finn was very, very tired.

He put on his pyjamas
and went straight to bed.

'I'm going to sleep, Úna!'
he called to his wife.
'I'm all worn out!'